IN EVERY DETAIL.

Separates trash from the water before the water is filtered.
Water filters upward through sieve, preventing trash from being mixed with filtering material. Bird nests, leaves, trash, etc., cannot possibly enter filtering material, as it is caught in the bottom of filter before water is filtered.
When screw cap is removed, it allows filter to dry out thoroughly. There is no chance for bugs or any kind of insects to accumulate as it does in other filters from dampness.

Read The Record.
It is now the time of year to lay in your winter outfits. Before making your purchases consult the columns of THE RECORD and you will see what to buy and where to get it. It costs money to advertise in a newspaper, and you may rest assured that unless advertisers had the bargains they would not be spending that cash.

Remembering the Dead.
A number of old soldiers have completed arrangements to place a monument over the grave of James T. McQuerry, who died in Lancaster about 18 years ago. He was a member of Morgan's command and served with distinction. The movement was started by Jim Dillon, a federal soldier. Mr. McQuerry was a well-known and much-liked man.

It's Settled Again.
The Danville Advocate has driven another nail in Garrard's coffin. It says: "Danville is a fine town, no doubt of that. This road MUST come by here." This edict, together with Stanford's $25, will surely settle the matter. The Southern can not get around such commands and lavish use of money.

Leg Broken.
Mr. John Cress, one of Garrard's most upright and honorable citizens, met with a sad misfortune Monday. While riding along Crab Orchard St., near railroad, a negro was showing a horse which ran into Mr. Cress, breaking his leg below the knee. He was removed to the residence of Mr. Thompson, the limb set and he is now doing as well as could be expected. The break is not so serious as it is painful.

COMING UP NICELY.
Land Owners are Doing the Proper Thing Toward Securing the Rail Road Through Old Garrard.

The committee selected by the Commercial Club, Messrs. Geo. T. Higginbotham and Jas. N. Denny, have seen every land owner along the proposed route (save one or two who will be seen this week) and every one has agreed to submit the case to a committee of two, one selected by the Club and one by the owner, and to accept what damage the committee will say is done their land. This is the most reasonable and just way to get at the matter, and the land owners show their sound sense by the way they have gone about it. Each party has selected its man and a meeting will be held tomorrow, Friday, to make the formal appointment, and the men will then go over the route and say what they think is a reasonable amount to be paid the land owners in damages. We will know in a few days just what the right of way will cost us. Judging from the feeling all over the county, we do not believe there will be the least difficulty in raising the money. Men of all classes have expressed their intention to give according to their ability, and all hands are greatly encouraged at the outlook.

A survey will probably be made via Danville and Stanford, but, dear reader, believe us when we say that this survey through the other counties will not amount to a hill of beans if we come up to the scratch with our duty in this matter. The Southern has exactly the kind of survey she wants right here, and if she is given the right of way she does not want to go any other route. Some of the weak-kneed have said that because the Southern would be offered a bonus to come to Danville, it would certainly go that way. Now don't believe that for one minute. The Southern railway could take all the money in Boyle county and it would not keep the brakemen in chewing tobacco for one week. What does a road like the Southern care for a town the size of Stanford, Danville and Lancaster all pitched into a heap? What she wants is a direct line to make its connection, and the survey here fills that want. We are fortunate to be on this line, and if we do our part we will get the road, but if any antagonism is shown the road will be built elsewhere. Of course they are not going to buy a right of way through a county where the people would be hostile to them and keep them plastered over with little 2x4 annoying law suits.

We stick to our assertion that this road means the making of Garrard county, and now is the only opportunity we will ever have to get another rail road. If we miss this, its goodbye Pauldanth with us. Everything is in our favor, and what we want to do is to keep our shoulder to the wheel and not cease tugging away. We hope to give in next issue the exact amount to be raised.

They Know The Best Route.
Harry Giovannoli says in the Advocate: "If they didn't have some good reason for wanting to take in Lancaster and miss Danville, the expense of making the other survey would not have been incurred."

Right they are, old boy. They had the best reason in the world—they get the best route through Garrard.

A Paper at Paint Lick.
It was reported on the streets here Monday, that a newspaper was to be established at Paint Lick, this county. If the grazing is as short in that end of the county as it is here, the editor will find the picking pretty dry. Its the easiest thing in this world to start a paper, and anyone can get out the first few issues, but when the steep hills of time are encountered, those who started in to fill the "long-felt want" will find that all's not gold that glitters, especially in the newspaper field.

Will Build Parsonage.
At a business meeting of the members of the local Baptist church, it was decided to erect a parsonage on the lot adjoining, which is owned by the church. As the congregation now has to pay rent for a house, it is clear that it will be economy to put up a building on their lot. They will erect a frame dwelling, substantial and convenient. Here's a mighty good chance for those blessed with an abundance of this world's goods to show their liberality by contributing to this work.

Another Fight at Paint Lick.
It occurred between The Roller Mills of Burnam & Rucker and their customers and trade, and it seemed for a while that the mills were about to get licked but Burnam & Rucker have put on a double force of men and are now running their plant both night and day. They are now prepared for trade and exchange fully. Come from near and far, you can be accommodated generally inside of 30 minutes. Remember we stand on our feet and state to the public that we are experts at our business. 9-21-9t. BURNAM & RUCKER.

Goebel and Blackburn at Richmond.

Another Lancaster Enterprise.
Mr. O. C. Heberling, a practical florist, has rented the Thompson property on York, opposite W. O. Rigney's and established a green house. He will raise all kinds of flowers and plants. Being a man of long experience and having worked in the largest green houses in the country, he understands the business thoroughly, and our people can get what they want in this line right here at home. Next spring he will erect two large hot houses and run the business on a much larger scale. Mr. Heberling has ordered a large stock of Dutch bulbs from Chicago which arrive about Oct. 15, and will sell them at reasonable prices. It is much better to buy these right here at home, and save taking chances on having them injured in shipping. Mr. Heberling can supply cut flowers in any designs on the shortest notice.

Court Day.
The largest crowd ever seen at a September court came in Monday. The streets were filled with people and an immense crowd swarmed around the stock pens. Stock of all kinds was here in great droves, and mule colts, as one fellow expressed it, simply hung on the bushes. Trading was quite lively, and good prices prevailed, as our stock column will show. The crowd was unusually orderly, and those who surrounded too much whiskey were of the good natured kind that do no one harm and attend to their own drunk. The stock ordinance was enforced and, while some thought it a little hardship at first, yet they soon saw the many advantages and now believe the plan a good one. Had all the stock here Monday been turned loose upon the streets, people could not have crossed, and it would have taken a solid week to get the pavement cleaned. Mr. Bengie runs his bus to the pens, and the traders have no trouble whatever in getting there. At night, some of the left-overs got pretty drunk and made Rome howl with their Comanche yells and pistols. The merchants report a fair day, but not up to the usual September court.
